Dear Parishioner and Gentle Reader,

In today's Gospel we are told that: “The Lord appointed seventy-two others and sent them out ahead of him in pairs...” This would suggest that Jesus delegated others with the task of proclaiming the Good News. That notion of co-responsibility is at the heart of the Synodal Process that has been happening throughout Ireland and indeed throughout the Catholic world in recent months. Pope Francis is calling for a Church in which all God's people are given an opportunity to discern how the Holy Spirit is calling us to a new way of being active in the world today. That reminds me of something I read recently:

Question - When will things go back to the way they were before?

Answer - Probably never! The Spirit doesn't seem to lead us backward to what is familiar, but forward to the unknown. We cannot chart the exact course of this invitation. We can only accept it and experience the pain of change as well as the joy of new life to which God is constantly calling us.

In recent years, we have experienced much change: change within the Church and change within society. For many, it has indeed been a strange mix of pain and joy, bewilderment and confusion. There is no doubt, we face all kinds of challenges and countless opportunities that lie before us. But we must never forget that we are an Easter people, a people of hope, who are empowered with God's own Spirit. We must recognise that the parish, in which we live is not just a place, it is primarily a community of the baptised - planning and working together, recognising each other's gifts and discerning the presence of the Lord in our midst. "The harvest is great, but the labourers are few".

From the responses of those who participated in the synodal consultation, it is becoming more evident that lay people will have to take greater responsibility and claim ownership of their parish in terms of administration, maintenance, pastoral care and liturgical celebrations. What was formerly the concern of the priest alone, must now become the shared ministry of many. Such a 'seismic shift', however, must be accompanied with prayer, patience and perseverance - "Ask the Lord of the harvest to send labourers to his harvest".

There is widespread recognition that the Irish Church is in deep crisis, and we cannot continue to operate as we have done in the past. We are witnessing unprecedented change in our culture and in people's expectations. Only by listening respectfully to each other and allowing the Holy Spirit to speak to our hearts will we be open to conversion and action. "Start off now, but remember I am sending you like lambs among wolves."

The Irish Bishops have announced their intention to embark on a synodal pathway specifically for the Irish Church which will lead to a National Synodal Assembly within the next five years. The real test of its success will depend on its implementation. "Yes, I have given you power to tread underfoot the whole strength of the enemy; nothing shall ever hurt you". Let us pray that we will allow the Holy Spirit to lead us into the unknown and give us the courage to experience the pain of change as well as the joy of new life to which God is constantly calling us.

With every blessing, Monsignor Colum.

Sunday Missal

Because we are still not allowed to distribute parish bulletins in paper form, some people regret not being able to follow the readings and prayers during Sunday Mass. It might be opportune, therefore, to consider purchasing a Roman Missal for the New Year, which would cover the 3-year cycle.

If anyone would like to place an order, please do so by e mail beraghparochial@btinternet.com or contact the Parish Office on 02880 758 206.

Covid-19

While the Executive has decided to ease the restriction of face coverings in places of worship, Church leaders are encouraging people to continue to use them as a precautionary measure against the spread of infection.
